GLORIA SWANSON IS CECIL B. DE MILLE'S LATEST DISCOVERY

Beautiful Actress Has Important Role In "Don't Change Your Husband".

Despite that Gloria Swanson has appeared in numerous motion pictures before joining the Famous Players-Lasky organization, the fact remains that she is a virtual discovery and in "Don't Change Your Husband," Cecil B. DeMille's new Artcraft picture which will be shown at the Gem and Opera House Thursday, she exhibits a screen beauty, a charm, grace and talent that is almost a rarity in the ranks of Filmdom.

After several unsuccessful attempts to find just the type for the role of Lella Porter, Mr. DeMille tried Miss Swanson in the part. She fitted it like a glove. Her ability to wear striking Oriental gowns, her daintiness which has something of the exquisite about it, the strange expression in her eyes, that seems to reflect something of which the poets sing in their Northern sagas, a hint of her Scandinavian ancestry—made her a perfect type for the romantic young wife who finds that after all her prosaic husband is best.

Miss Swanson is the daughter of Capt. Joseph T. Swanson, now in France with the American army. He is part Swedish and part Italian. Her mother was of French and Polish extraction and this queer exotic mixture has imparted to Gloria a quality that is both indefinable and incomparable.

Mr. DeMille was assisted in his production of "Don't Change Your Husband," by Sam Wood and Ann Bauchens, who are both technicians of real ability and understanding. The cast is unusually fine, Elliott Dexter being the leading man.

MUSIC LOVERS SHOULD NOT MISS THIS TREAT

The All-Star Popular Concert Series Begins Next Monday Night at the Washington Theater and Should Have a Capacity Audience.

Perhaps nobody has done anything nearly so practical to foster the love of music in the concert field as Oscar Seagle, the distinguished American baritone, who is to appear here jointly with Barbara Maurel, prima donna of the Boston Opera Company, at the Washington Theater Monday evening, October 20, in the All-Star Popular Concert Series. In the first place, Mr. Seagle has given much study to the folk lore and music of the Southern negro, whose songs meet with such general appreciation, after which he has added them to his concert repertoire. So thoroughly has he caught the spirit of the Southern negro that it requires no special effort of the imagination to picture to oneself the entire story called up by the song he is singing. His negro songs have won for him great popularity everywhere. It seems that everyone, irrespective of his likes and dislikes in things musical, loves the old negro songs, and when it is Oscar Seagle that sings them, the love is increased tenfold.

Mr. Seagle is the only great artist ever heard in America who has given his audience the prerogative to request that he sing some particular song of their own choice. Of course, he must of necessity limit the number of "request" songs on each programme, otherwise there's no telling just what would happen.

Though Miss Maurel is French to her fingertips, and can sing French chansons as no other artist could, she likewise possesses the native versatility of the French woman, her delivery of songs in English being just as flawless as those in her mother tongue.

Sascha Jacobsen is another unique artist who is to be heard here for the first time. There never has been an American violinist who in any manner of degree approached his young New Yorker either in point of technique or artistry. The critics have agreed that he is in a class by himself, seeming to possess the distinguishing characteristics of Elman, Kreisler and Heifetz all in one.

The subscribers to this series will also have the privilege of hearing the Columbia Stellar Male Quartet, an organization known from coast to coast. Another going concert will be given by Amparito Farrar, the dazzling young lyric soprano, and Charles Harrison, tenor, who has won for himself the title of "the American McCormack" because of his exceptional voice and interpretation on the Irish ballads.

LABOR PROBLEMS AND THE HOPE OF INDUSTRIAL PEACE

Was the Subject Discussed by Dr. Edward West at the Old Public Library Last Evening.

The High School Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Wallace Reese sang two numbers.

Mrs. C. O. Pickett of Omaha, Neb., accompanied on the piano by Miss Elizabeth Barbour, in a voice of unusual sweetness sang, "Were I Gardner" by Chaminade; "Come For It June" by Dorothy Forster, and "The Morning Wind" by Gena Branscombe.

Miss Mary Wilson told in her inimitable style a story that gave the keynote of the Maysville Community Club, how the Palace Beautiful rose by magic when all the musicians played together.

Prof. W. J. Caplinger then introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Edward West of the University of Kentucky, who said in part:

The general feeling of industrial unrest prevailing throughout the country as evidenced by strikes in the field of transportation, in mining, steel and other industries, is due primarily to the rapid rise in the cost of living together with a general lagging in wage increases. A secondary cause for this unrest is the never-ending agitation of nostrums or unsound theories aiming at a comprehensive change of the established economic order. It is regrettable that this unsound propaganda is the result of misguided ambition on the part of a few persons and that the spread of false doctrines is fostered by ignorance and suffering among the masses.

With the exception of a few setbacks prices have risen steadily since 1898, but since 1914 they have taken a very rapid upward while the income of wage-earners, salaried men, owners of long-term bonds, same proportion. There has been a good deal said about profiteering as a cause of high prices and this nefarious practice has its influence; but the primary causes of the rapid advance of prices are the phenomenal increase of currency, especially that form associated with bank credit, and the marked shortage of supplies in turn is due to reckless and extravagant consumption since the signing of the armistice, the exportation of large quantities of goods to Europe, and especially the slackening of production caused by strikes and general discontent. Virtually no hope for a reduction of prices is seen in the contraction of the currency for the reason that its expansion rests very largely upon liberty bonds owned by thousands and taken by banks to secure deposits against which checks are drawn to meet obligations. This results in the creation of additional currency but it is unavoidable. The rise in the price level, however, can be halted by a general return to work, by increasing production, and by a rigorous policy of saving.

The remedy of placing labor in the position where it was in 1914, that is of giving labor income the same purchasing power that it had then, can not be sought in the reduction of the cost of living including foodstuffs, clothing, rents and building materials, but rather in taking the level of these prices as an established fact and raising wages in the same proportion. Authoritative computations, such as are made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics are necessary to make proper wage adjustments.

What is extremely important at this time is the formation of a national labor policy and the universal recognition that the satisfactory settlement of labor problems means greater social welfare. It is not only a question of general wages but one of minimum wages which determine the lowest standard of living in the country. Other problems that ramify far and wide throughout the whole structure of our civilization are hours of labor, safety and freedom from accident, health and morals, and social insurance including insurance against accident, sickness, unemployment, invalidity, and old age. Many of the States have already legislated concerning these problems, but too much specific regulation is not desirable and many of the details have to be left to labor and capital to be adjusted among themselves. This therefore calls for a recognition of the principle between that labor has the right to organize.

Men with vision like ex-President Taft recognize and completely this right, but there are still some enterprisers who deny this right to labor. One of the chief sources of friction between capital and labor is the lack of industrial democracy or the lack of a machinery through which labor may express itself concerning labor conditions. Let labor organize and elect a "shop committee" to meet with the employer and adjust disputes in their incipient stages. This principle is now beginning to be used rather freely. ### PIE SUPPER

There will be a Pie Supper at the Washington High School Friday evening, October 17. Everybody is invited to come and bring a pie. 14-3t

Fuel and Iron, International Harvester, Bethlehem Steel, Goodyear Rubber, and many other concerns in one form or other are using the "shop committee" idea. With a machinery of this kind established in the large industries in time all labor problems can be amicably adjusted. With a conciliatory attitude on the part of both capital and labor and an intelligent consideration of the profit-making capacity of the concern even the more fundamental problems of wages and hours of labor should lend themselves to adjustment without the use of the strike.

Our national labor program should forever keep in mind the interests of the public and the advancement of the entire civilization. In the full and complete recognition of the right of labor to organize there must be limitations of power. Weapons like the sympathetic strike, and the use of violence are certainly not in the interest of the public. Strikes among policemen and other public officers lead to anarchy and to the destruction of civilization and therefore cannot be countenanced. The hope of civilization is the institution of private property, improved democratic relationships in industry, and a closer unity between capital and labor.

STRONG AND CON- SECURED MEN AND WOMEN WANTED

To Carry Out the Enlarged Program Involved in the Baptist 75-Million Dollar Campaign.

In the hope of inducing to enter active Christian service a sufficient number of the strongest and most consecrated young men and women among the Baptists of the South to carry out the enlarged program involved in the Baptist 75-Million Campaign, Friday, October 24, will be observed in all the Baptist schools and colleges of the South in "Calling out the called," while similar services will be held in a majority of the 25,000 Baptist churches of the South Sunday, October 26, Dr. L. R. Scarborough, general director, announced today.

Indicating the need of more workers who will give their whole time and energies to religious effort, the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention is calling for a large number of additional missionaries, evangelists and teachers in the mountain and missionary schools, Dr. Scarborough says. At the same time the Foreign Mission Board is asking for a minimum of 457 additional missionaries to carry forward its enlarged program made possible as a result of the campaign; the general work of the Woman's Missionary Union, Baptist Young People's Union and the Sunday Schools all demand more trained workers; while there are between 3,000 and 5,000 pastorless Baptist churches in the South, 700 of this number being located in Texas alone. The need for consecrated laymen to serve as salaried superintendents of Sunday Schools is very urgent, Dr. Scarborough announces. Within the last sixty days he has had calls for 25 such men, the positions paying from $1500 to $3000 a year, but he was unable to recommend a man for any of these places, as all the men he knows who are qualified and trained for that work are already engaged.

"There is no doubt about our raising the $75,000,000 asked for in this campaign," Dr. Scarborough said today, "but if the program of service which we have planned is carried out we must have more workers."

To match our five-year program we are asking for a minimum of five additional workers, competent, consecrated young men and women, and I believe this number will be forthcoming if our Baptist educators and pastors will lay the appeal upon the hearts of the young people on the two

STRIKE IS ENDED AS FOOD IS HALF GONE

Longshoremen and Ferry Workers Suddenly Decided to Return—Compromise Wage Increase Accepted.

New York, October 15.—More than half of New York's food reserve had been consumed when the strike of longshoremen and other harbor workers, which has paralyzed port activities for a week, was broken today.

The ferry workers at midnight unexpectedly decided to return to work immediately, accepting with reservations the Government's compromise offer of a 10 per cent. wage increase. By dawn all the ferries were plying the Hudson. Fifteen thousand of the 80,000 longshoremen are working today, and union leaders predict that by Friday all will be at their posts. The strikers voted to abide by the wage award of the national commission pending further negotiations on December 1.

The teamsters' strike remains in force, as the men decided last night that they would not return to work until they received more definite propositions concerning an adjustment of their demands.

CANDIDATES FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION

Owing to the fact that some of the members of the Board of Education who were elected two years ago have resigned, there will be nine positions to be filled the coming election. In order that men who are accustomed to the work may continue together, the following, who are at present members from the wards mentioned, are announcing, that if the public desires, they will continue to serve in that capacity:

First Ward—J. Reese Kirk, Charles Slack. Second Ward—Ben H. Greenlee. Third Ward—Dr. A. O. Taylor. Fourth Ward—J. Barbour Russell, R. M. Lindsay. Fifth Ward—Dr. W. C. Crowell. Sixth Ward—Dr. A. R. Quigley, Geo. Dodson.

Miss Alice Lloyd went to Lexington this morning to attend a meeting of the Special Hygiene Committee today and a meeting of the Co-operative Council of Kentucky to be held at the University of Kentucky Thursday, October 16.

Days that have been set apart for "Calling out the called", Friday, October 24, in the Baptist schools and colleges, and Sunday, October 26, in the churches.

REMARKABLE BATTLE IS RAGING AT RIGA

British Warships Fire Upon German Russian Armies—Gas Shells and Air Bombs Used—Flames Destroy Part of City; Enormous Casualties.

Copenhagen, October 15.—Riga is the center of a great battle, raging on land, on sea and in the air. Shells from British warships, which are aiding the Letts and Lithuanians against the Germano-Russian armies, have fired a portion of the town, and a district many blocks in extent has already been consumed.

The Germans are bombarding the part of the city held by the Letts with gas shells, and bombing it from airplanes. Estonian armored trains, supporting the Letts and Lithuanians, are replying to the German fire. A British force, with a number of heavy guns, is reported to have been landed a short distance from the city, and to be preparing for an assault. Casualties, both among the contending forces and among civilians, will reach an appalling total.

All bridges across the Duna river have been blown up.

Blockade measures are being rigidly enforced in the Baltic, six German merchant ships having been captured by one British destroyer. All the prisoners taken by the Letts and Lithuanians have been Bavarians.

The Poles have begun an offensive against the Germano-Russian forces in the Baltic region. They have captured Wovno, 60 miles northwest of Vilna, near the Courland border.

STREET CARS HAVE RESUMED THROUGH RUNS

For the past ten days pedestrians who have been using the old reliable street cars in the West end and have been greatly discommoded by the concrete work inside the tracks from Wall street to the West end, but now they can again be city folks, as the cars are running through to the West end loop.

RAPID RISE IN THE OHIO

The Ohio river is rising fast at this point, owing to the heavy rains of the past few days, and the tide is so heavy as to inundate the works at the dam, causing a stoppage there, perhaps for the balance of this season. Many of the men have been compelled to return to their homes because of the lay-off.

UNCLE TED'S BED-TIME STORIES

It was late Saturday afternoon and Uncle Ted had been home for some time before Jack and Ruth were seen coming up the street toward the house. They had been to the movies and were talking away forgetting everything around them when their Uncle appeared at the front door and called:

"Here they come. Two little kiddies returning from the wild and woolly movies. I don't suppose you want to hear a new fairy story, now do you?"

"I do!" answered Ruth as she ran up the steps.

"You know I'm always asking you to tell us stories, Uncle Ted," was Jack's answer.

"All right then, I'll have to tell you one before dinner tonight. Get your wraps off and we will go into the front room where I've started a nice fire in the fireplace."

When they were all settled, Uncle Ted in a big arm chair, Ruth on one arm of the chair and Jack on the floor, Uncle Ted began:

"Once upon a time, not so very long ago, there was a poet in far off Italy. He sat in his window looking out over the blue waters of the Adriatic Sea and dreamed dreams and wrote very beautiful poetry. Then the Great War came and his country joined with Belgium, England and France to fight Germany just as our country did later on. He didn't dream so much then for he joined the Italian army and helped his country and the allies beat Germany. After the war was over men from all the fighting countries met in Paris to make the peace treaty. It was then that President Wilson started trying to decide matters for every country in the world instead of making peace with Germany for the United States and then coming home to attend to the important work here. He said that every little country should have the right of 'self-determination,' which meant that many cluded in other big countries should little countries which have been in allowed to start a country of their own. This meant trouble for all. A people called Lithuanians started fighting Russia. Poland started her own country. Another country called Czechoslovakia was started and still another by people called Jugoslavs. These Jugoslavs are made up of Serbians and some people from Austria-Hungary and other mixed races from that part of the world."

"Where was the poet all this time?" asked Ruth impatiently.

"I'm coming back to the poet in a little bit. Now when the peace conference got to the claims of Italy the Italians said they must have a city called Fiume which had been captured from them by Austria years ago. They said the people in this city were Italians and that it should belong to them. But President Wilson and some others wouldn't let them have it and when the treaty was signed Fiume was given to Jugoslavia. This made some of the Italians very angry but most of them got over it. But the poet didn't get over it. He said, 'Fiume is Italian and Italy must have it.' So he called for volunteers and almost over night he had an army and navy of Italians with him. With the poet in the lead they went right over to Fiume, captured it and stayed there. The poet, whose name is Gabriel D'Annunzio, was so successful that other leaders have started Italy to take possession of other places near Fiume on what is called the Dalmatian coast. This whole business may mean a bad war because Italy will not only have the Jugoslav troops against her but the allies in addition because she has broken the peace treaty."

"Is the United States going to get into it?" asked Jack.

"The United States has already gotten mixed up in it," answered Uncle Ted, "and some of the big Senators in Washington are angry about it and demand an explanation. We got mixed up in it this way. When it was learned that the Italian forces were going past Fiume and trying to take other towns below, Rear Admiral Andrews, who is commanding the American naval forces in the Adriatic, received orders from Great Britain to land U. S. Marines on this coast at a place called Trau to assist the Jugoslavs in driving out the Italians. The Navy Department in Washington gives all orders to the Navy but they knew nothing about it. The situation is more serious now because Italy is back of the poet and any action against him will be action against Italy and might mean war."

"Why didn't England or France land troops instead of ordering ours?" asked Jack.

"Because England at least didn't want to get into trouble with Italy, and it looks like she thought it would be easier to order Americans than to go herself. This sort of thing just shows what would be happening all the time if the world club were going and we belonged to it. England has acted just as though it were going because otherwise she would have no right at all to give orders to our navy. The poet has said that he will fire on any ships that try to interfere with what he is doing and I don't blame him. It is the business of Italy and Jugoslavia and we have no business mixing up in it at all. Unless we get out we may find ourselves at war with Italy."

"Are the Senators going to do anything about it?" asked Ruth.

"They dread to think how close our Marines and Navy men came to bringing war on the United States when they were landed to use force in driving the Italians from Trau. They will start an investigation of the matter just as soon as they can."

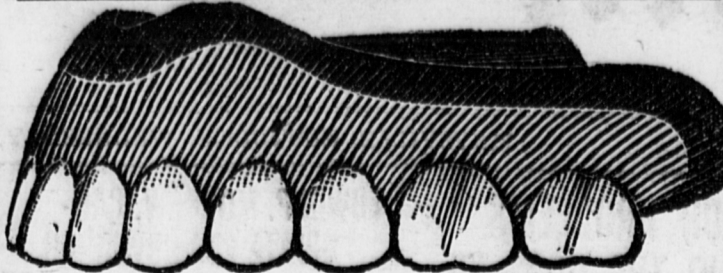

"I think England and all of them had better learn that we don't belong to any world club and never will," said Jack.

"I hope you are right, Jack," said his Uncle, "or we will be getting into trouble like this all the time."

Catarthal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. ## POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS

When the President named the membership of the industrial conference of capital and labor he did not include one woman, in spite of the fact that 80 per cent. of those who have to bear the chief burden in the homes of the high living cost are of the feminine sex. On the part of the employers he appointed 22 employers, of course. On the part of the disinterested public he named Judge E. H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation, now at war with its employees, and 18 other employers. On the part of labor he named 22 leaders of labor.

It was this same Gary who testified before the Senate Labor Committee that the real issue in the strike is the open shop, and that he would not under any circumstances agree to confer with his employees if union men. It was he also who declared that the great reforms for the benefit of labor in industry, such as the eight-hour day, the six-day week, and better living and wage conditions, were inaugurated by the Steel Corporation. Senator Borah, of Idaho, elicited from him that he is opposed to unionism as such and the assertion that unionism is not good for either the workers or the public.

Representative A. W. Jefferies, of Nebraska, a Republican, has introduced in the House a bill to prevent the exportation of lumber during the period of reconstruction. He points out that the United States exported 1,077,973,000 board feet of lumber in the year ending in June, 1919. He is of the opinion that this should be used for the development of building in the United States.

For the benefit of the farmers, Senator Wadsworth, of New York, has reported from the Senate Committee on Military Affairs a bill authorizing the Secretary of War to transfer to the Secretary of Agriculture motor vehicle equipment for use by State highway departments in the building of good roads.

Use of United States forces against rebellious Italians in the Adriatic has caused as much resentment on the part of Republican Senators as has the continued participation by them in Siberia, in spite of the fact that this country has no war with Russia and has not even declared war on the present government there. Not even Secretary Daniels knew that the forces under him were so used until he found that a joint allied body in Europe had ordered it for the benefit of Italy. Senators did not fail to point out the connection between this and the league of nations policy of using our forces to uphold all boundaries everywhere, and when Senator New, of Indiana, asked for timely information on the subject, Senator Hitchcock, leader of the league-as-it-stands supporters, refused unanimous consent.

MORROW GIVEN ROYAL DEFENSE IN JOINT DEBATE

Judge Bethurum Challenges Cantrill to Produce Evidence.

Irvine, Ky., October 15.—A large audience of Estill county voters assembled in the court house here Monday afternoon when Judge B. J. Bethurum, of Somerset, and J. Campbell Cantrill engaged in a joint debate on the issues of the campaign.

Owing to the fact that it was county court day and that the speaking of Judge Bethurum had been widely advertised, there was a large crowd in town. Republicans composed a considerable majority of the audience. The meeting was presided over by John W. Walker, chairman of the Republican campaign committee, and Judge Hugh Riddell, for the Democrats.

Judge Bethurum opened the debate with an hour speech in which he denounced the Stanley-Black administration in vigorous terms and showed how the taxpayers' money had been squandered and burdens of taxation increased by the addition of useless office holders to the State payroll. He also discussed the fearful condition of the State's charitable institutions and sufferings of the unfortunate inmates under Democratic partisan control.

He paid particular attention to the public schools under Democratic domination, and to the textbook commission of Stanley. Judge Bethurum was repeatedly interrupted by the loud applause which frequently broke into cheers. His prediction of the election of Edwin P. Morrow and the rest of the State ticket, including James A. Wallace, was greeted with tumultuous applause.

Mr. Cantrill replying, spoke for one hour and fifteen minutes. He endeavored in general terms to uphold the administration of Governor Stanley, although he asserted that Governor Stanley was not now a candidate. He made no attempt to deny the famous Tye railroad pass letter, written by Black, which was read and discussed with telling effect by Judge Bethurum and offered no defense of Governor Black on that point.

Mr. Cantrill dwelt at length upon the charge that Mr. Morrow, while district attorney, had prosecuted the tobacco farmers in the Federal court; that Morrow had written a letter to Senator Bradley in which he refused to recommend a pardon for the tobacco men.

Judge Bethurum, replying to Mr. Cantrill, denied Cantrill's charge and stated that if he could prove by the records of the Federal court at Covington or elsewhere that Mr. Morrow had prosecuted the tobacco growers as charged by Cantrill, that he would guarantee that Morrow would withdraw from the race and that Governor Black could have the governorship by default.

He said that he would go further and guarantee that Morrow would withdraw as a candidate for governor if Mr. Cantrill would produce from the files of the Department of Justice at Washington or elsewhere a letter written or signed by Mr. Morrow protesting against the pardon of the tobacco farmers.

Judge Bethurum in a most vigorous and impressive language demanded that Mr. Cantrill "put up or shut up."
